WRECKED IN THE ARCTIC (Continued from last week)

Now we tried to saw out the Era. The work occupied two or three days. We found it impossible to go through the ice and the vessel was driven upon the rocks; but the tide ebbed and she slid off uninjured. We then put into Buddington Harbor. Every day we climbed the mountain to look for open water. August 7th we made another attempt--this time with better success--and in three days were in clear water. We were now on an allowance of two hardbreads a day. Our mate said he turned out in the morning hungry, after his meals was hungry and turned in hungry--yet he had more to eat than us poor fellows. Our men were so starved that some would eat their week's allowance at once, and beg from the others the remaining days.

August 17th, we saw the first steamer, supposed to have come out of the Straits of Belle Isle bound for England. The 19th, we fell in with and boarded the schooner David A. Story, of Gloucester, Mass., whose captain kindly furnished us with provisions, telling us that we were within one hundred and fifty miles from St. Johns, N. F.

The morning of the 24th St. Johns came in sight. This morning every man on board was capable of smiling for the first time. We all went ashore at 11 o'clock, and our story and appearance aroused the sympathy of the inhabitants. The Consul cared for us, provided us with warm clothing and sent us to the Mariners' Home, where we remained two days, having plenty of company in the form of bedbugs.

The editor of the St. Johns paper, in an article on our disaster, says:

"The crew of the Isabella complained very bitterly about their treatment by Capt. Clisby of the Era. We inquired of Captain Blossom of the Isabella as to the truth of their allegations, and he said they were very unjust. The crew of the Isabella, he said, owed their lives to the timely arrival of the Era, and while in their thirteen month's stay on board that vessel, some unpleasant things might have occurred, they were well treated, upon the whole, and had no sound cause for complaint. Capt. Blossom is a fine specimen of a whaling captain and has been twenty years in the business. He desires us particularly to say that he and his crew had been very kindly treated by Consul Malloy of this city, and thnked him for his kind consideration."

The steamer Nova Scotia arrived the following Tuesday from London, England, on which the Consul secured us a passage to Halifax, N. S. From Halifax we went to Boston by steamer Ulunda. On the passage the passengers took up a collection for us which amounted to $1.00 a man. We arrived in Boston August 31, 1885. Almost immediately after the steamer had reached her dock my father came on board and it was a happy meeting for us. I bade all my shipmates good-bye and started for my home--which, with the hard experience I have seen, I can better appreciate than before being "Wrecked in the Arctic".

BROWNIES RECEIVE PINS

Ten newly registered Brownies of Rochester Troop 177 received their pins at investiture ceremonies held at Rochester Memorial School. Mrs. Madeline Arruda, troop leader, presented pins to Laurie Lebelle, Angela Nigro, June Thompson, Jill Deakin, Marsha Hartley, Polly Gerrish, Julie LeConte, Bonnie Spooner, Lesley Tuttle and Beverly Plaud.

Also receiving pins were Mrs. Elaine Landis, assistant troop leader; and Mrs. Mary Lou Deakin, troop 177 committee member. Mrs. Landis and Mrs. Deakin assisted Mrs. Arruda during the investiture ceremonies.

The candidates for Brownie pins went through a Brownie ritual and skit before receiving pins. This entitles the ten girls to wear the Brownie uniform.

Concluding the ceremonies games were played and group singing was held. Present were many of the parents of the Brownies.

THANKSGIVING DAY GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond LaPointe and family of Marion Road, Rochester had as guests on Thanksgiving Day Mrs. LaPointe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Atwood, of Lakeville.

Dear friends,

We believe every reader will agree with us that poor service in the funeral directing profession is dear at any price. You want, above all, service of the highest type. Cost is secondary.

On the other hand, you want the price to be fair. And in that connection, we are perfectly willing that our prices be compared with any other establishment giving the same type of service.

Respectfully,
Carl C Cornwell
